Agreement for Legal Services

Date: 2026-01-12 | Reference: FEE-C02

Client: Tomas Reyes

Matter: Delgado, Reyes & Bello v. Ridgeway Logistics

1. Scope of representation

Client retains the firm for advice and representation in the matter identified above. The firm will keep the client informed of material developments and provide copies of settlement and billing records on request.

2. Compensation and calculation of fees

If recovery is obtained before a complaint is filed, the attorney fee is thirty-three percent (33%) of the client's gross recovery. Once a complaint is filed, the fee is forty percent (40%) of gross recovery, including a settlement reached after filing and before trial. Filing suit is the event that changes the tier; the fee is not reduced because trial does not occur. Gross recovery is measured before costs and liens.

3. Costs and shared recoveries

Filing fees, expert charges, records and reporting expenses are accounted for separately. In a jointly represented matter, a signed allocation agreement controls each client's share of the recovery and shared costs. Each client retains a separate trust ledger and this individual fee agreement.

4. Statements and client authorization

Before a settlement distribution, the firm will provide a statement showing the client allocation, fee basis, costs, liens and net proceeds. Client funds remain in trust until earned fees or authorized expenses are paid. Questions about a statement should be directed to the responsible attorney before approval.
