Agreement for Legal Services

Date: 2026-01-12 | Reference: FEE-C03

Client: Ana Bello

Matter: Delgado, Reyes & Bello v. Ridgeway Logistics

1. Scope of representation

Client retains the firm for advice and representation in the matter identified above. The firm will keep the client informed of material developments and provide copies of settlement and billing records on request.

2. Compensation and calculation of fees

The attorney fee is twenty-five percent (25%) of NET recovery after deduction of this client's allocated litigation costs. First allocate the gross recovery to the client, then subtract the client's share of litigation costs, then multiply that remainder by 25%. Medical liens, if any, are paid separately and do not change the stated fee basis. No fee may be calculated on the gross allocation before costs.

3. Costs and shared recoveries

Filing fees, expert charges, records and reporting expenses are accounted for separately. In a jointly represented matter, a signed allocation agreement controls each client's share of the recovery and shared costs. Each client retains a separate trust ledger and this individual fee agreement.

4. Statements and client authorization

Before a settlement distribution, the firm will provide a statement showing the client allocation, fee basis, costs, liens and net proceeds. Client funds remain in trust until earned fees or authorized expenses are paid. Questions about a statement should be directed to the responsible attorney before approval.
